“Transforming Your Business’s Most Important Asset”

Kayla Barrett

Businesses work hard to provide great service to customers, but what about within your company? As we emerge from this recession, job possibilities at other companies will begin to appear, something that your employees have not had the luxury of considering for the past few years. As this happens, it will become imperative that your employees feel valued by you...their employer. To ensure sustainability within your industry, you must look at the bigger picture and invest in your most important asset – your people.

Meet your investment counselor. Organizational Impact, LLC, founded by Kayla Barrett, is your partner to build the employee skill sets needed to give you an advantage. “We offer educational workshops and consulting services that give immediate, transformational results within your workforce,” she explains. Spanning human resources, leadership and employee development, OI’s courses and resources are applicable for corporate, non-profit and even ministry organizations. “We don’t do anything ‘off the shelf,’” Kayla asserts. “We listen to our customers, gain an understanding of their business issues and design a solution to move them forward within a budget that makes sense and at a pace that works for them.”

Kayla’s extensive experience makes her well-equipped to be your guide. And while the solution is different for everyone, “most issues come down to one of three areas: communication, vision or leadership,” she asserts. “These are people issues. And if you don’t invest in them, someone else will.”
